HOLIDAY SCHEDULE

The library will be closing at 2 p.m. on Saturday, December 24 and Saturday, December 31. The Bunker Hill Branch will be open from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on those days. Additional holiday closings are listed on the back of this newsletter.

EXHIBITS AT THE LIBRARY

Stop by the library for different art and culture exhibits every month. Our first floor exhibit areas will feature paintings by Tom Rosa and a festive display of nutcrackers in December, Art Deco chrome wares and historic views of Venice in January, and memorabilia from the P.R.I.D.E. Cultural Center in February.

The Children's Room will exhibit artwork from Tinker Elementary School in December, Rotella Magnet School in January, and Bunker Hill Elementary School and St. Mary's School in February.

PUBLIC HEARING: INTERNET FILTERING

A public hearing will be held in the library auditorium on Wednesday, December 21 at 6 p.m. to address a proposed technology protection measure (filtering) and Internet safety policy to be adopted by the library in accordance with the Children's Internet Protection Act (CIPA).

If you'd like to receive email from the library about our upcoming programs, visit our website, bronsonlibrary.org, to join our mailing list.

TELL US WHAT YOU THINK!

How are we doing? What services should we add? Take our survey and let us know! The survey is available online at our website, www.bronsonlibrary.org. If you prefer a paper survey, you can pick one up at the main library and at the Bunker Hill branch library.

NEWS FROM THE FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY

Readers' Garden Bookstore

Hi Everyone — The Holiday Season is here and, as promised, we have a variety of items for sale with holiday themes: there are large books, hardcovers, paperbacks, CDs, DVDs, and VHS. You may want to pick some up for gift giving/stocking stuffers, or just buy some for yourself and enjoy reading some lovely holiday stories. Also, check out our sales cart in the Children's Department for holiday items.

In January, we will be offering a great selection of history books on our sales table. Sharing the sales table will be biographies of people from all walks of life, including politics, history, and the arts.

In February, look for special offers on cookbooks, crafts, how-to, and popular authors.

The Bookstore offers an ongoing book sale throughout the year at bargain prices, starting as low as 10¢. Please visit and tell your friends about us. The Bookstore is open during regular library hours and payment for your purchases is taken at the circulation desk in the front lobby. All proceeds benefit the library.

Join the Friends of the Library

ADULT PROGRAMS

IMAGES OF AMERICA: AMERICA'S DISTORTED IMAGES

Thursday, February 2, 6 - 7:30 p.m.

Main Reading Room

Jeffrey Fletcher will present some of his collection of artifacts from the eras of slavery and segregation, giving you an opportunity to experience a powerful visual display of what motivated the trailblazers and pioneers who forged the way for equality as well as freedom for African Americans today. The exhibit embraces the teachings of tolerance, diversity, unity and educating people that there was a time when imagery played a significant role in how African Americans were perceived.

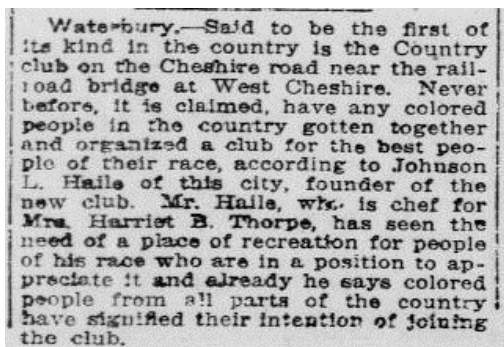

Fletcher, an African American, is a 21-year veteran of the New Haven Police Department. He began collecting and exhibiting these artifacts to educate people about the history of racism in the United States.

Wednesday, February 22, 6 p.m.

Main Reading Room

Robert Wright will discuss the life of A. Philip Randolph (1889-1979), a leader in the Civil Rights movement and the American labor movement. A precursor of Martin Luther King, Jr., Randolph led the March on Washington Movement (1941-1946) with Bayard Rustin, which led to banning discrimination in World War II defense industries – and later ending segregation in the armed services.

SATURDAY MATINEE: FREEDOM RIDERS

Saturday, February 25, 12 p.m.

Auditorium

Based on Raymond Arsenault's book, Freedom Riders: 1961 and the Struggle for Racial Justice, this two-hour documentary tells the story of the summer of 1961 when more than 400 Black and white Americans risked their lives traveling together in the segregated South to protest segregation.

SHARE YOUR STORY

For every person who loves libraries, there is a story about what the library means to them. We want to collect and share those stories. Is the library important to you? Do you have a story to tell? Share it with us!

LIBRARIES TRANSFORM™

Libraries are about more than just books. Libraries are centers of knowledge and learning, places where everyone is able to seek out information. Whether you're rich, poor, or somewhere in between, whether you're young or old, whether you're at the peak of your career, just starting out, or just starting over, libraries can enrich your life and give you the tools you need to transform your life.

All Waterbury residents, past and present, are invited to share their stories of the Silas Bronson Library having a positive impact on their lives.

How to Share Your Story

When to Share Your Story

Anytime! There is no deadline; we will keep sharing your stories for as long as you keep sharing them with us.

What Happens to My Story?

We will share your story online and/or in print, and we will save a copy in our archives. We may edit your story for spelling, if needed.

What About My Privacy?

We will use only your first name when we share your story. We will use your image only if you send us a photo of yourself. If you prefer to remain anonymous, just let us know, and we will not share your name or image.

YOUR STORIES SHARED

My first visit to the Silas Bronson Library was at its Brooklyn branch in 1948. Holding my mother's hand, we strolled down from our rent on Washington Avenue and walked inside the little brick building with the jazzy Romanesque facade that echoed that of its neighbor, Duggan School.

The Children's Room was on the second floor, up one flight of wooden steps that led, in my opinion, to paradise. So many books! Books in bins and on shelves that lined all sides of the little room that overlooked Bank Street from a tall, wide window in its front wall.

And there, in plain sight on a low child sized table in a shaft of sunlight, was my first library book, Millions of Cats, by Wanda Gag.

"Hundreds of cats, thousands of cats, millions and billions and trillions of cats..." repeated the text as the old man searched far and wide for a pet for his wife. My mother did not like cats, so I had to make do with the gray tabby belonging to Grandma's landlady on Riverside Street. But this small book with its yellow, black and orange cover thrilled me with possibilities.

When my little sister was around the same age as I was at my first library visit, I took her to the main branch of the Silas Bronson Library on Grand Street, and Millions of Cats was one of the first books I borrowed to read to her.

Wikipedia notes that this book is said to be the oldest American picture book still in print. Good things last, just like our City's library, a gift from Silas Bronson, and like my memories too, of the book that began for me a lifetime love of reading.
